THE IDEA

Musicians are called to share their talents with the world, demonstrating a selfless love when freely giving their gift. Spontaneous outdoor music recitals add spice and sweetness to neighborhood life, artistically connecting people in a positive and hopeful way.

Not only do your neighbors want to hear live music, they want to hear YOU!
Join the ever-growing number of musicians giving short recitals in their own front yards and outdoor spaces by bringing live music into your neighborhood.

The melody above is the unifying anthem for our project, but we encourage you to perform any other pieces you like as well.

A musician's vocation is not a choice, but a heart's calling that must be answered. Lift Your Voice.

ABOUT THE MUSIC (note from the composer)

This theme, Panem Nostrum, came from my setting of the phrase Panem nostrum quotidianum da nobis hodie, which means "Give us this day our daily bread." During composition, I envisioned a warm, safe, connected space where we can each ask for what we need - to ask for our daily bread, for the things that sustain us, literally and metaphorically.

As you play this melody, think about what makes you feel most alive, what keeps you going.
And send gratitude for your daily bread into the world with your music.

INSTRUCTIONS

Choose a day to go outside your home
- backyard, frontyard, balcony, porch, open window - and perform any melodies you'd like for as long as you want.
At some point during your recital perform "Panem Nostrum".
Let the music join with the natural sound of your neighborhood.
Some people advertise their recital, and others deliver impromptu "pop-up" performances.
It's entirely up to you! This is YOUR gift!
